FAQ

What does the 68A/68J course consist of??

The 68J students in the MEDLOG Program experience a series of Army-Specific and consolidated medical logistics courses. The program contains nine Army-Specific Courses totaling 148 hours of didactic, hands-on exercises, and practical lab training. During these sessions, students learn the importance of research via Publications and Directives, the Universal Data Repository, Federal Logistics System, warehouse management, repair parts procedures, property, assemblage and inventory management. These students also learn the basic skills, terminology, and techniques needed to operate the DMLSS Customer Assistance Module; also known as (DCAM) and the Theater Enterprise Wide Logistics System, or (TEWLS). Lastly, these well-informed students have the pleasure of participating in 92 hours of consolidated courses with their Air Force colleagues. During these four combined courses, the students learn about Supply Chain Management, Storage and Distribution, The Requisition Process, Sources of Supply, the Defense Medical Logistics Standard Support and Medical Materiel Quality Control.

The 68A, basic BMET program is 205 training days long and consists of twelve courses, each seventeen days in duration. Basic program students begin by learning basic electronics during the first 34 days of basic BMET training using blended instruction of instructor-led curriculum combined with an electronics simulation learning management system. For the rest of the basic program, students spend eight days in lecture and nine days in hands-on practical laboratory, gradually progressing to more advanced concepts and medical equipment, culminating with Service Specific training. Basic program students are evaluated a minimum of 188 times on various critical tasks throughout their training.

What would be a good date to have HHG delivered?

You can coordinate delivery anytime your spouse is available. Your spouse will have to do all your HHG coordination. You are not authorized to have your cell phone with you during the duty day so ensure your spouse has 100% authority and in communication with the moving company.

I just recently married and this is the first time PCSing. How do I set up a Household Goods shipment?

Once you obtain PCS orders, you must allocate a home and provide an address in the <https://eta.sddc.army.mil/ETASSOPortal/default.aspx> website and schedule your move. If you PCS without an address you have the option to place your items in temporary storage until you have a delivery address.

Does the housing office work with the hotel on base and provide TLA to pay for the hotel?

No. Lincoln Military Housing and the IHG Hotel work independently from each other. If you are PCSing, generally you will depart with a Government Travel Card to cover expenses en route. Reserve and National Guard SMs, please engage with your unit to ensure your travel arrangements are completed appropriately as you transition. All SMs will process through finance who can provide detailed answers of entitlements.

Does the gov't provide gov't furniture while we would be waiting on ours to arrive from overseas?

No.

I am PCSing with my family, am I able to apply for housing before I get to FSH?

Yes. Go to <https://lincolnmilitary.com/apply-now/?i=fort-sam-houston> , scroll ¾ of the way and click on each of the items in gold, fill them out and send to the email provided on the website.

My wife and I want to live off post, is this a possibility?

Yes. Be mindful of the gates during the hours of 0600-0800 as they can become congested.

My spouse and children will not be moving with me, do I have to look for my own place or does the Army provide me with quarters?

All prior service Soldiers in AIT status must stay in the prior service barracks when unaccompanied by their dependents.

Am I able to stay in a hotel if my orders/1610 state that I am authorized to?

No. All Soldiers in AIT status must stay in the prior service barracks when unaccompanied by their dependents.

Will my BAH change when I report to school if my family does not move with me?

Yes if your orders state "DEPENDENTS: YES" No if your orders state "DEPENDENTS: NO".

Reserve and National Guard may request an exception to policy through FSH G1.

I am married and my dependents did not PCS with me, am I still entitled to BAS while living in the barracks?

No. There are 2 dining facilities available on FSH. Slagel DFAC is open on weekend and holidays.

If I live off post, can I use the post gym to shower before class?

Yes. There are three gyms on post you can use. It is recommended that you do not go off post after PRT as the gates to access post can be congested. Remember that while in AIT status you do not have the luxury of missing class time.

How much class time am I able to miss?

You cannot miss more than eight consecutive hours or more than 16 non-cumulative hours in a single course.

What will happen if I get put on profile?

You will conduct PRT with the BN master fitness trainers until you are able to do unit PRT. You will still need to pass a graduation APFT to meet all graduation requirements. You will be in hold status until you pass your graduation APFT. NG/Reserve SMs will be sent back to their units without meeting course requirements if the unit refuses to fund the SM's training while in hold status.

What do I do if my family member(s) is/are EFMP?

Ensure all family members are enrolled in the EFMP before arriving to FSH. Ensure enrollment is current to avoid you being placed in a holdover status after graduation pending enrollment results.

What will happen to me if I fail to meet Academic/APFT requirements?

If you fail to meet academic requirements, you will be placed in hold

Will I be on TDY during this course?

No. You will be in AIT status throughout your course and will abide by TRADOC Reg 350-6 and all BDE, BN, and company policies.

My spouse is pregnant and will be delivering our child while I am in school. Will I be authorized paternity leave while in school?

A married Soldier on active duty whose spouse gives birth shall receive 10 days of non-chargeable parental leave (formerly called paternity leave) to be used in connection with the birth of the child. This absence must be taken consecutively and within 45 days following birth, or within 45 days after return from deployment. Active duty orders will not be extended to allow for parental leave. Active duty students who take leave will restart the current course. NG/Reserve SM will restart if the home unit approved the SM to be in a hold status.
